Dear Admiral Turner:

On 29 September 1977, as part of the agenda for the annual DCA Commanders Conference, [redacted] of your Technical Security Division presented a briefing on the technical security threat. In attendance were my Vice Director, Major General James M. Rockwell, USA; my Deputy Director for Operations, Rear Admiral Ralph M. Ghormley; and my Deputy Director for Command and Control, Rear Admiral Lucien Capone. Also attending were commanders from DCA field activities in the United States, Europe and the Pacific area and key members of my staff.

STAT

[redacted] briefing was outstanding in every respect and was extremely well received. There is no doubt in my mind that he contributed to an enhanced security awareness among all those present. As you know, it is a rare occasion when a security presentation receives a round of loud applause from any audience. In this instance it did happen and it was well deserved.

STAT

I want to express my official appreciation for a very fine briefing and extend my personal thanks to you for your support.

Sincerely,

Lee M. Paschall
